

THE PREHISTORY

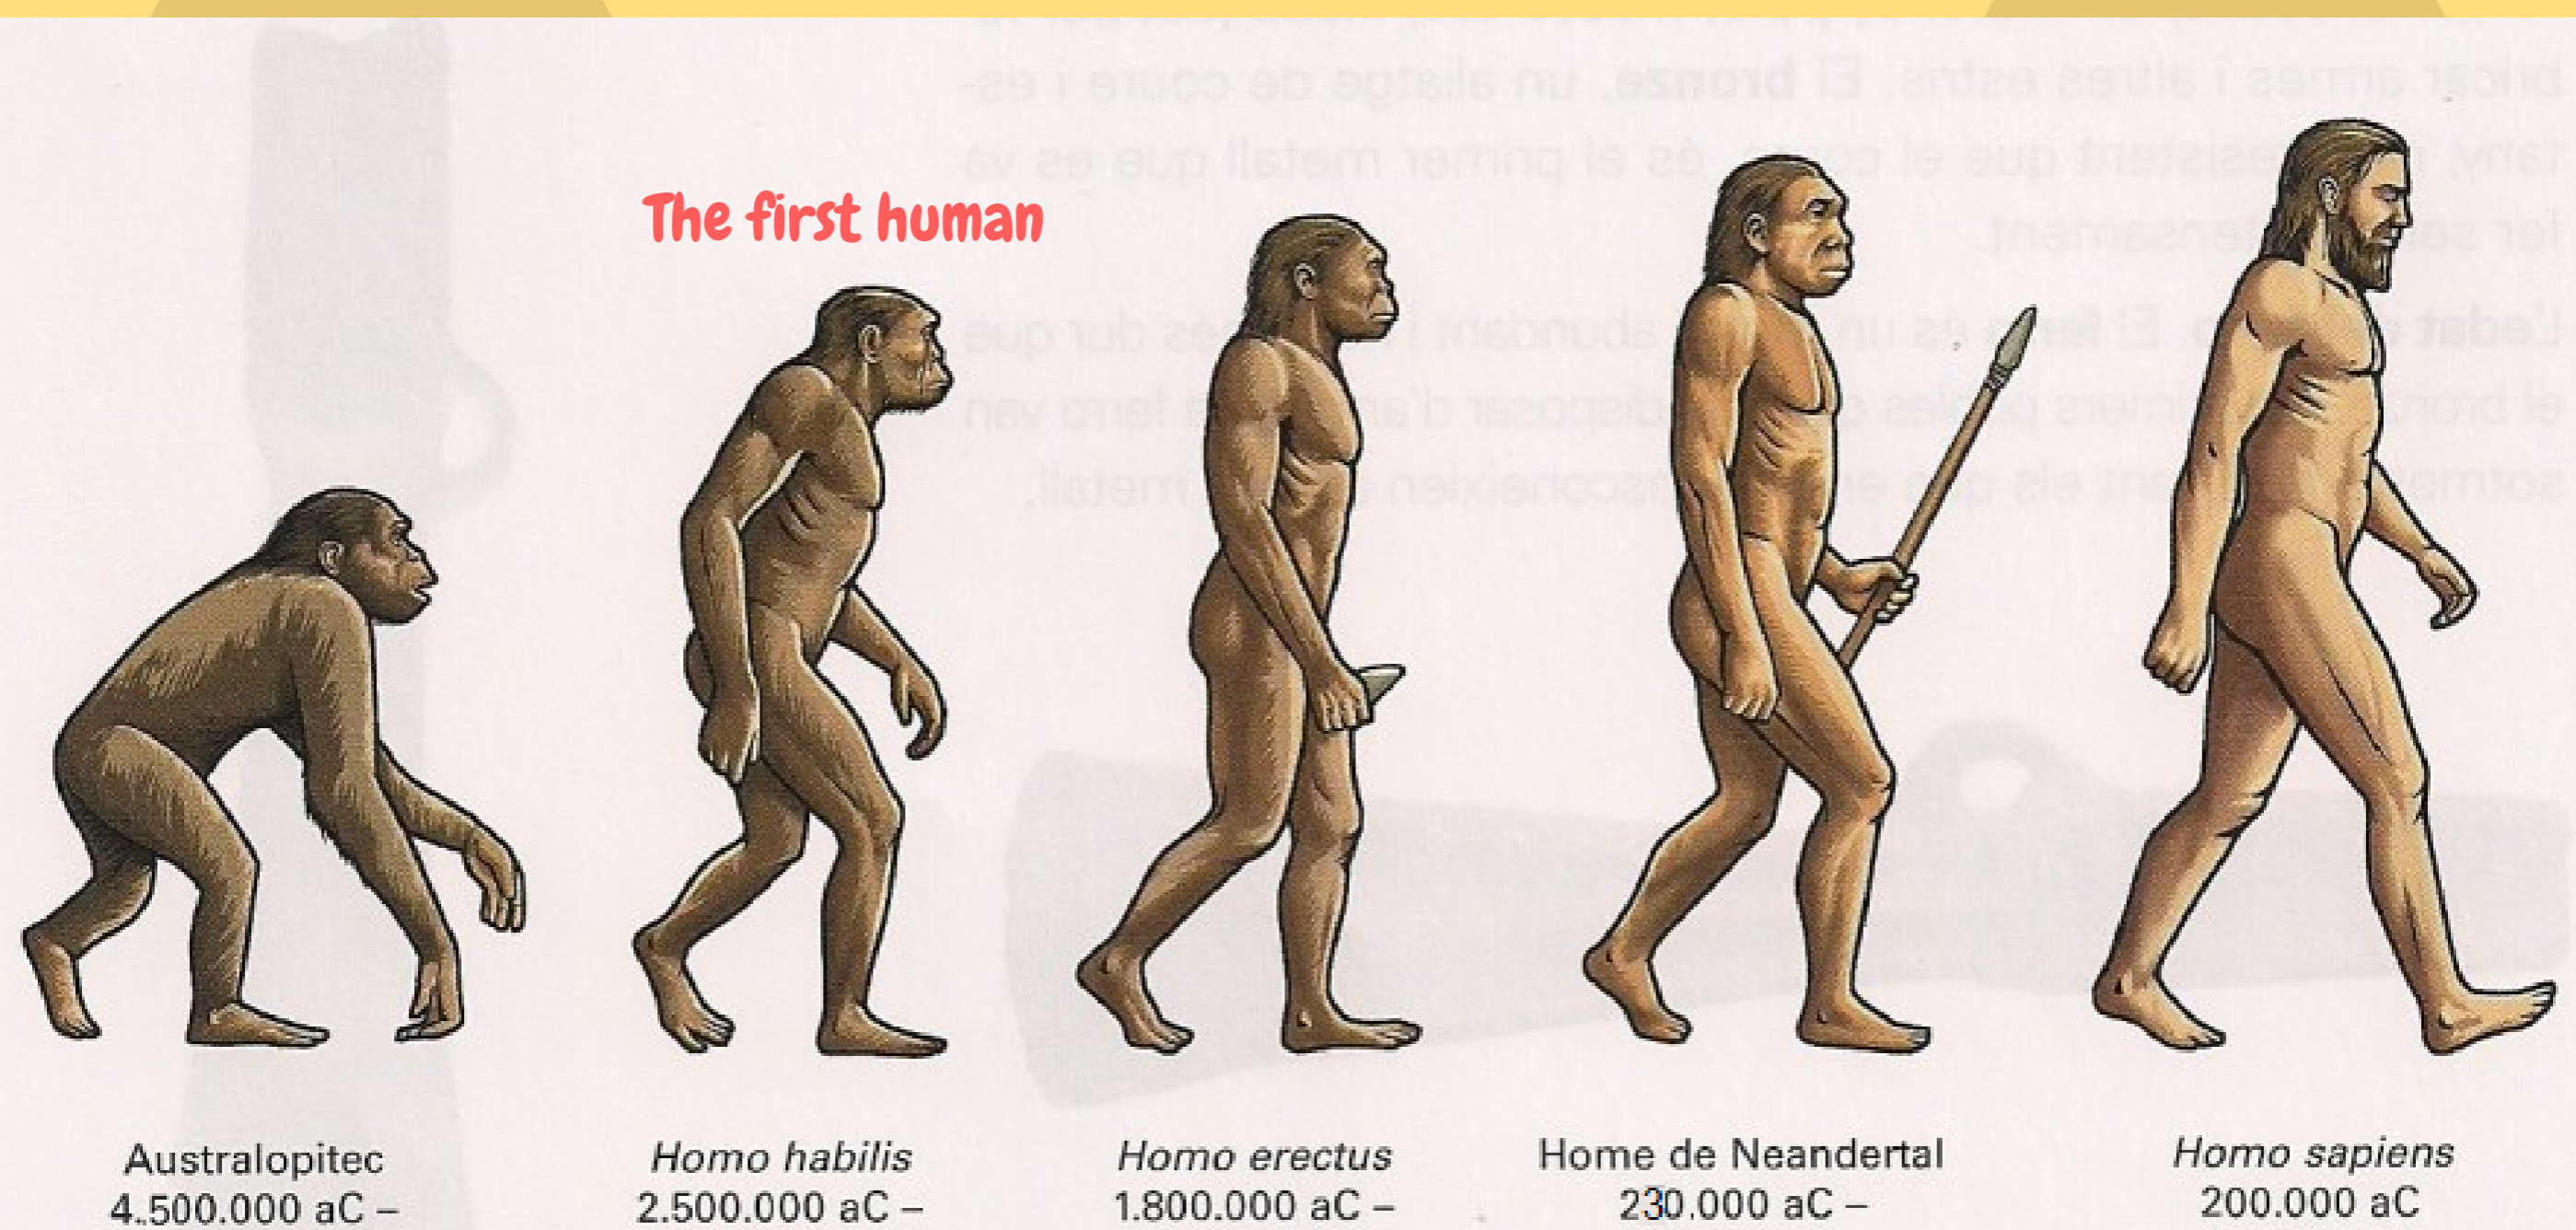

GROUP 5
MARCEL
MAHDI
JANA JIANHAO
MARTA T

WHAT IS THE PREHISTORY?

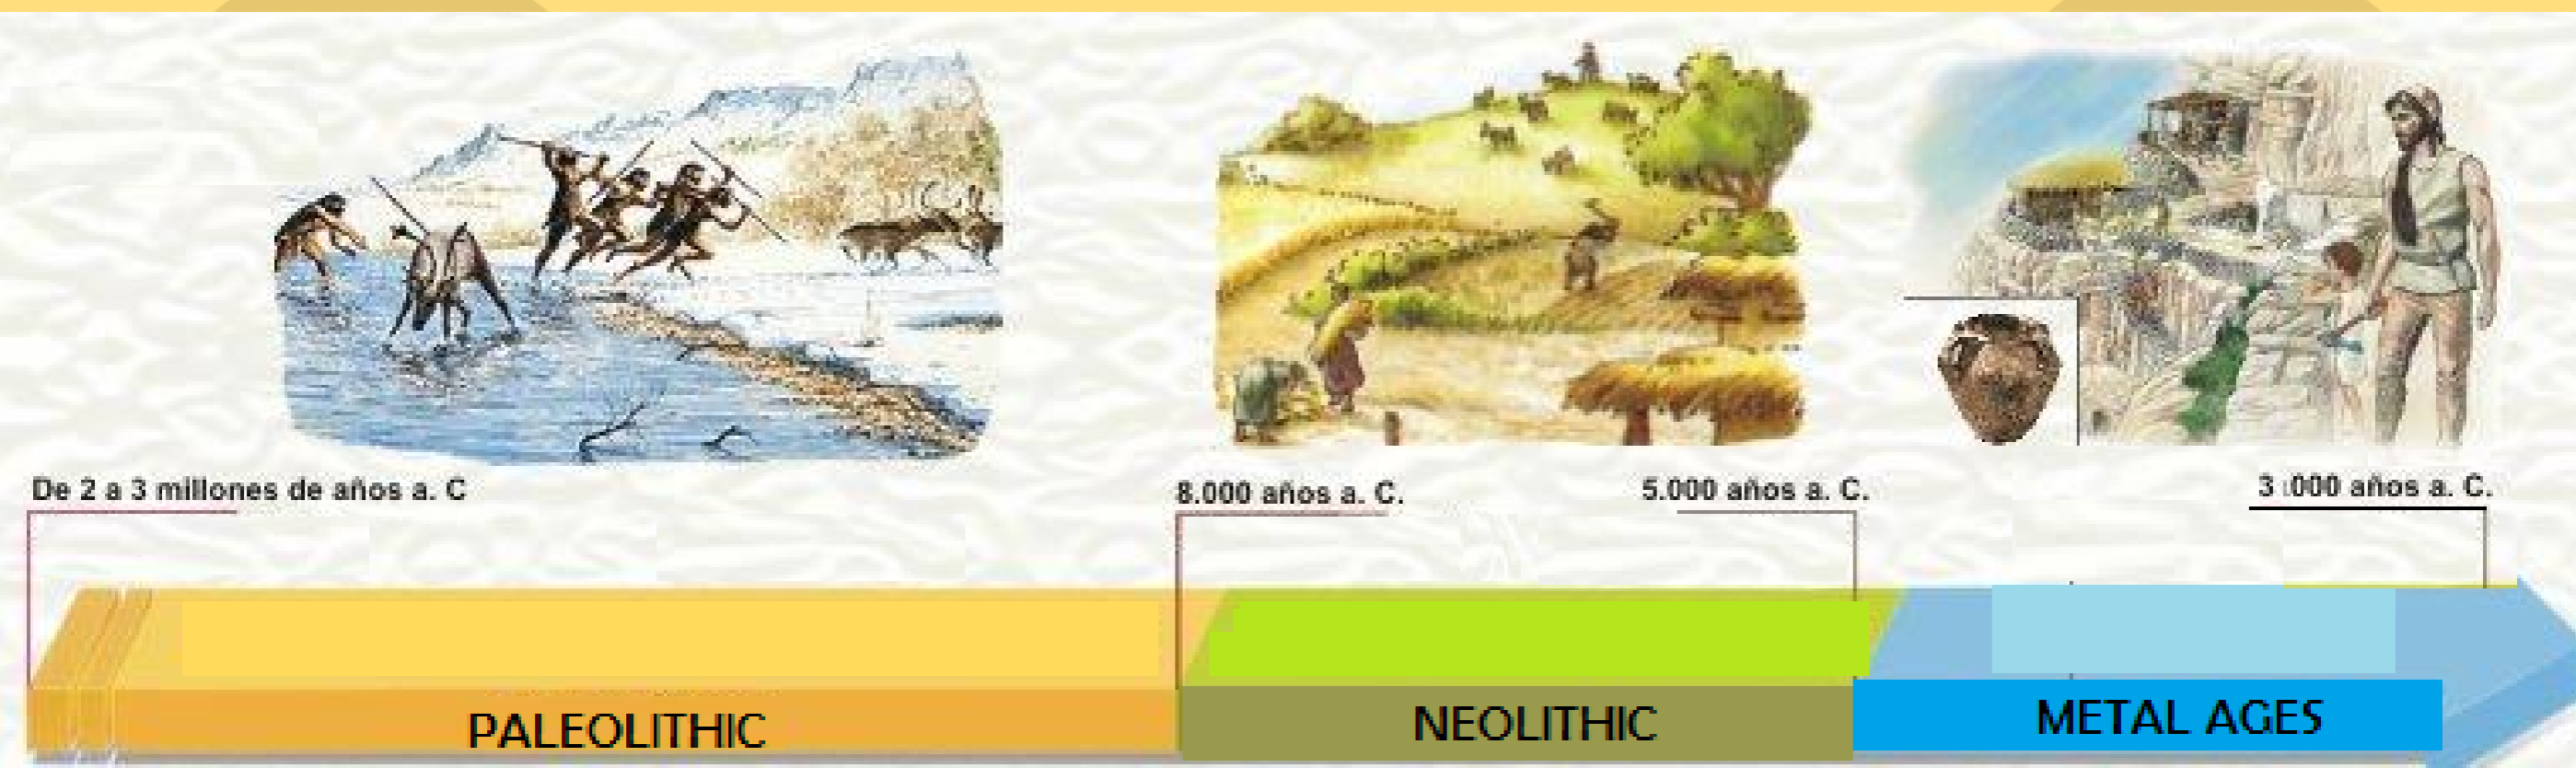

It is the period in which the first humans appear. The first representation of a human appears 4'5 million years ago. It is similar to a gorilla.

But the first humans appear 2'5 millions ago with the name of Homo habilis.

Then, the man evolves until it becomes an Homo sapiens.

The prehistory divides into 3 periods:

THE PREHISTORIC JOBS

In the Paleolithic period, the humans collect fruits from the trees and the bushes and they hunt animals.

In the Neolithic period and the Metal Ages, they cultivate the land and they domesticate animals.

WHAT DO THEY EAT?

In the Prehistory, first they eat fruits and animals.

After, when they cultivate the land, they eat cereals and food that comes from the animals they domesticate.

WHAT ABOUT THE TOOLS?

In the Prehistory, the humans discover the fire.

The fire heats them when it is cold and it illuminates them in the dark. With the fire they can also cook the food.

In the Neolithic, the humans discover the ceramic, that is useful to make pots.

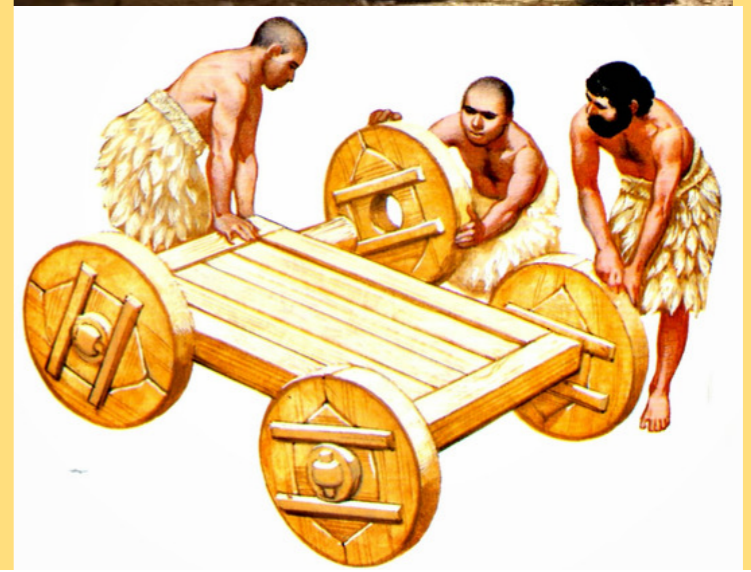

In the Metal Ages, they discover the metals. With the metals, they make weapons to hunt animals or to fish, tools to cook, ornaments...

Also in the Metal Ages, the humans discover the wheel.

With the discovery of the wheel, they start to use carts in which they can carry the food or other objects.

The first wheels are made with stone.

ORGANIZATION OF THE PREHISTORIC HUMANS

In the Paleolithic period, the humans don't live in a specific place, because they always move to look for food.

They are nomads.

In the Neolithic, they start to live in a specific place, because they learn to cultivate the land.

They become sedentary.

HOW DO THEY DRESS?

They dress with the skin of the animals that they hunt.

The clothes help them to survive from the cold.

FACTS FROM PREHISTORY

The first humans appear and after that...

They have lots of skills!

They start to make tools with stones and bones.

For example, they do needles with bones, and they use the needles to make clothes!

Many of the tools are weapons to hunt. To make weapons, the humans also use wood and horns of animals.

They make super cool paintings!

The humans of the Prehistory paint on the walls of the caves. They do "Cave paintings".

They do the paintings to favor the hunting of animals.

The homes of the Prehistoric people!

In the Paleolithic period, the humans live in caves.

In the Neolithic period, the humans live in cabins. The cabins are made with straw and wood.

The humans live in small villages.

THEY HAVE NICE MONUMENTS...

They make monuments with the stones, that have the name of megaliths.

The megaliths are stones that are very big and they are nailed to the ground.

There are 2 types of megaliths: the dolmens and the menhirs.